REGDE PURDUE'S CAGE FACE IN BIG 10 SATURDAY

Revised K. H. S. Lineup Faces St. Anne Tonight

Two Boys Get Promotions To Regular Five

Coch Charles Harrison will be trying out a new lineup when his Kankakee high school basketball team invades St. Anne for a renewal of an ancient rivalry tonight. The heavyweight game, following a 7:30 o'clock preliminary between the lightweights, will start at 8:30 o'clock in the St. Anne community high school gymnasium. After practice yesterday afternoon, Harrison announced the following combination that would start the night's fray: Jack and Milligan, forwards; Brown, center; Anderson and Lang, guards; Milligan, who has been a semi-regular lately, likely will see steady action now. Elmore Clawson and Paul Lee have finished their play days with Kankakee. Brown, who has been in a reserve role, is the other young man to receive promotion through the departure of the aforementioned cagers.

Tripoli Looks As Site
For Fascist Stand
In North Africa

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 28.—The main body of British troops who captured Italy's Libyan stronghold of Tobruk less than a week ago was reported moving rapidly into position today for a smashing assault on Derna, almost 100 miles to the west.

Simultaneously, British forces increased pressure on three other links into Premier Mussolini's African empire, driving deeper into Eritrea and Ethiopia and harassing frontier posts in Italian Somaliland.

Derna Next Objective

Dispatches from the Libyan front, which disclosed that the British had left only a skeleton force in Tobruk while closing in on Derna, reflected confidence of military circles that the town soon would be added to General Sir Archibald P. Wavell's conquests.

Italian artillery was reported firing intermittently in an attempt to disrupt British preparations for an assault upon Derna, but military men expressed belief that show of resistance would do no more than delay its fall.

The winding coastal road leading from Tobruk to Derna was described as seething with activity as the British moved up troops, ammunition, equipment and supplies for the attack with virtually no opposition from the Italian air force.

British sources here inclined to the belief that to avoid being driven out of Libya altogether the Italians would have to depend upon a final stand at Tripoli.

Advance in Eritrea
At the opposite end of the African battleground, meanwhile, the British advance in Eritrea was reported to have severed the line of retreat of three or four Italian battalions withdrawing from Umm Hagar, some 10 to always doing the same thing it was natural that when Torris was drafted, Morris enlisted. They are here being "identified" by a puzzled companion at Fort McPherson, near Atlanta, Ga.

forces east of the Sudanese frontier.

Cut off from supporting Eritrean forces, the Umm Hagar garrison was said to be retreating southward into Ethiopia, closely pursued by the British.

Umm Hagar was described as the last outpost on the Sudan-Eritrean front to be abandoned by the Italians. Further north, the British reported they had penetrated almost 80 miles into Eritrea to menace Agordat, on the railroad leading to the coast and the capital at Asmara.
